"Countryfest" event may be held in town

By Bill Laforme

It remains to be seen what will come of it in 2016, but the Lynnfield Recreation Commission told selectmen that it has begun making very preliminary plans for a live country music event to possibly be held in town this summer.

Julie Mallett of the Lynnfield Recreation Commission spoke to selectmen about priorities and budgeting for the coming year, and one thing she noted was the goal of adding a new event in town each year, starting in 2016, that will attract 1,000 people. For this year, that possible event is tentatively known as "Countryfest," and it could take place at one of several different locations in town, depending on many different planning factors.

The Country Fest event is being eyed for June at this point, and it remains to be seen which performers can be lined up within that time frame, and the recreation commission will largely have an eye out for a high-quality performer with as established a name as possible.

Building Committee and Architects to hold Community Forum at HHS

On March 10 at 7 p.m. at the Huckleberry Hill School Multi-Purpose Room, the Library Building Committee, William Rawn Architects, John Sayre-Scibona, Owner's Project Manager, the Trustees — and you, members of the community — will sponsor the third (and final) Community Forum before the April 25 Town Meeting. Architects Kevin Bergeron, Cliff Gayley and Sam Lasky will share preliminary designs for the site and a floor plan. Please bring your friends and neighbors and join
